

A la carte Menu

You're in illustrious company.
Previous diners at The Grove include
Edward VII, Queen Victoria and Lord Palmerston.
No doubt their host, the Earl of Clarendon,
treated them with due deference,
maintaining an air of strict decorum.

Dressing for dinner was de rigueur,
and woe betide the servant
who brought in the silver seconds too late.

Times change, and today our service is less strait-laced. Our elegance is more egalitarian. Our luxury is more laid-back.
We've even (shame on us) relaxed
the rigid dress code of the past.

Look around. Not a tiara in sight.
